

The climate crisis fuels so much injustice.

- Corporate interests site sacrifice zones in black and brown neighborhoods.
- Droughts and superstorms set climate migration and political instability in motion.
- Wildfires destroy lives and livelihoods.
- Carbon pollution from burning fossil fuels increases the rate of asthma, cancer, and heart disease, especially in vulnerable communities.
- Habitat loss accelerates the risk that novel viruses like Covid 19 will spread from wildlife reservoirs to the human population threatening lives and causing economic volatility.

Sooner or later, every justice issue intersects with the disruption that arises from the climate emergency. That is why your vote as a person of faith who cares about important issues - like inflation and racism and immigration and rising prescription costs and voter suppression - matters.
